

In every instance the printer supplies the paper, and deposits the work, duly folded, and stitched where necessary, and no possible delay is to occur in the daily execution and delivery of the work, so that in all cases where it is practicable, the matter ordered to be printed on any given day, may be ready for delivery next morning at the hour to which the house so ordering the printing of the adjourned, except in the printing of the annual report made from any of the departments, under any permanent act requiring such reports, in which cases 48 hours longer will be allowed.

The proposal must specify the rate of decrease in the price of printing any number of impressions greater than the usual number, and not exceeding 5000. Title pages will not be indulged, except expressly ordered, nor will any extra allowance be made for working on Sundays, holidays or after night. The contractor or contractors must embrace a possible amount of work during the congress equal to $40,000, in which amount security will be required. Proposals must be accompanied with the name or names of the security or securities offered; no offer of any additional security, after the proposals are opened, will be attended to.

The Paradise of Coquettes,
A POEM, in nine Parts.
A second edition of this elegant Poem just published and for sale by the Subscribers.
The character of this Poem is thus given by the Quarterly and Edinburgh Reviews:—

The Paradise of Coquettes;
The character in which the poet processes to speak, is that of the POET OF WOMAN. He is supposed to be addressing woman, and woman only, and addressing her, 'on adventures of which she is the heroine, and on charms and graces, which it is the whole history of her beauty to have exercised with failure or success.'

His incontestable merits, and the assiduous care which he has bestowed upon the poem, deserve the warmest praise.
Quarterly Review, Oct. 1814.
We have here a little volume which may be fairly regarded as a prodigy in his age of quarto ballads, romances, heroics, and sentimental simplicity. It is by far the best and most brilliant imitation of Pope, that has appeared since the time of that great writer; with all his point, polish, and nicely-balanced versification, as well as his sarcasm and witty malice. He is always at home—always lively and entertaining.

His satire is polished and yet pungent.
His versification, in particular, is almost invariably flowing & harmonious.
Edinburgh Review, Feb. 1815.
"A vein of polite irony runs through the 'Paradise of Coquettes' which was familiar to the writers of the age of Anne and George the First, but has been discarded in making other modern improvements, by our contemporaries."

New Line of Packets

Between Georgetown & Alexandria.

THE Subscriber conceiving a line of Packets plying between this place and Alexandria, would be an accommodation to the citizens of both places, he has procured two good and fast sailing boats for that purpose, which have commenced running, leaving this place and Alexandria every day. The object of this line of packets is to obtain freight, so passengers will always be carried gratis.
Articles of every description entrusted to his care, will be stored free of charge.
Persons who may confide their business to him may depend upon a prompt and speedy attention to their concerns. Being well known in both towns, he flatters himself that he will receive a liberal encouragement.

The boats will stop at A. Boon and Co's wharf, Georgetown, and at Mr.
William Ramsay's wharf, Alexandria.

remained sometime hidden in the crowd a witness to their debate; after which he sent to the nearest guard-house for an under officer and some soldiers whom he ordered to remain on the spot till the wood should be entirely unloaded. This being finished he ordered that in case the countryman should be guilty of fraud, to give him fifty lashes with a whip over his shoulders; but if, as he imagined, he should be found innocent, the obstinate inspector should submit immediately to the same punishment, and should be forced moreover to re-

New fashioned swinnulling. On Tuesday last, a man by the name of Joseph Heath, who had several years since lived as a servant in the family of Mr. Lemuel Welles, a merchant in New-York now residing at Phillipsburg, in West Chester county, came to the store of Mr. Henry Tenbroeck, on William Street, and stated that Mr. Welles' son had died suddenly. Mr. W. being absent from home, and that Mrs. Welles had sent to town to procure mourning for her herself and the family; and produced a forged

With profound emotion, Lewis entered upon the most painful duty that had ever fallen to his lot, in his whole professional career. Though he despaired of being able to save his unhappy friend, he determined, of course, to make every possible effort to accomplish this end.

With this view he objected, that Ernest's body had been committed to the earth without any previous judicial examination and dissection.

He described the time, the place, and the two travellers so minutely, that there remained no the slightest doubt of his having actually committed the murder of which George accused himself. The latter, trembling with rage, had fired at random, and was innocent of the death of his friend.

The local tribunal transmitted all these particulars to the supreme court; the proceedings, with the accompaniments, and the ball exactly fitted the pistols which were found upon the murderer at the time of his apprehension.

The forms of legal proceedings may often seem troublesome or useless, but let them not be arraigned the judges replied, that this ceremony seemed unnecessary and superfluous, as the murderer had voluntarily confessed the deed; but if the (the advocate) insisted on the examination of the body, it should be taken up by the desire of Lewis, this was accordingly done. The town surgeon attended, and declared that as the ball had passed right through the heart, death must naturally ensue. Lewis wished to know if the ball were still in the body; the surgeon sought for and found it; upon which the advocate sent for the pistol with which the deed had been perpetrated, and tried to drop the ball into the barrel. It seemed too large; he accordingly tried it in all possible ways; still it would not go in. That this ball could not be fired by this pistol was evident to every observer; the judges looked at one another and shook their heads. There was not a person at what had completely made up his mind respecting the guilt of the prisoner; but this circumstance quite confounded them all. The confession of the prisoner, made without the employment of the stigma of fear or force, was corroborated by every circumstance that had previously come to light; the ball alone seemed to proclaim his innocence.

Lewis began to conceive the strongest hopes, and was nearly overpowered with the excess of his joy; he did not, however, suffer it to get the better of his judgment. He proposed that the proceedings, with the ball and pistol, should be sent to the supreme tribunal, that it might decide in this extraordinary affair. This proposal was the more readily accepted, as the local court was puzzled how to act, and absolutely unable to pronounce any judgment whatever.

While the papers were in the hands of the supreme tribunal in the metropolis, a highwayman, who had shot and robbed a traveller on the road, not far from the birth place of the friends, was brought to that town. Convicted by sufficient evidence, he acknowledged his crime; but this was not all; he confessed, on further examination, that two months before, he had murdered another man on the same road. This circumstance excited suspicion; and being still further questioned, he related the following particulars:—

"About that time I happened to be in a village public house. Two men on horse back came in after me; I remarked that one of them had a heavy girdle filled with money fastened round his body and beneath his waistcoat. I began to consider whether it was not possible to possess myself of his rich booty; but then, how was this to be done, as he had a companion? However, thought I to myself, I have a brace of good pistols. If I shoot one, the other will probably run away in a fright, and before he can give the alarm and fetch witnesses to the spot, my fleet horse will have carried me far enough out of their reach; if, contrary to expectation, the survivor should stop by his companion, what hinders me from giving him the other ball? Such was my determination, which I immediately resolved to execute. I had overheard them talking of the way they should take, rode off before, and having tied my horse to a tree, concealed myself in a thicket by the road side. No sooner had I taken my station, than the travellers approached. They were quarrelling violently. I had already taken aim at the man with the girdle, when the other pulled out a pistol and discharged it at his companion. I fired at the same moment. My man fell just as the other's ball whizzed past my ear; he then sprung his horse, was engaged for a short time with his dying fellow traveller, and at the instant when I was going to fire at him, he mounted again and galloped away. I had now time to ride the pockets of the deceased, and having done this, I rode off as fast as I could."

He described the time, the place, and the two travellers so minutely, that there remained no the slightest doubt of his having actually committed the murder of which George was accused himself. The latter, trembling with rage, had fired at random, and was innocent of the death of his friend.

The local tribunal transmitted all these particulars to the supreme court; the proceedings, with the accomplices, and the ball exactly fitted the pistols which were found upon the murderer at the time of his apprehension.

The forms of legal proceedings may often seem troublesome or useless, but let them not be arraigned on that account. Now and then indeed, a criminal may through their means escape the punishment due to his guilt; but if, in the course of a century, they save the life of only one innocent person, the wisdom of the Legislature ought to command our gratitude.

ALEXANDRIA: FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1817.

The following correspondence has just been handed us for publication. We rejoice at the intelligence it conveys, and congratulate our friends in Loudoun on the opportunity offered them of evincing their continued confidence in a gentleman, who has so long, so ably, and so faithfully represented them in the National Legislature.

April 1st, 1817.

DEAR SIR,

A number of the freeholders of the County feeling a deep solicitude for the success of several measures of general policy which will probably be agitated in the next General Assembly, have requested of us to know, if you will serve as a member for this County in the House of Delegates if elected. We now confidently make this appeal to your patriotism from the assurance, which your political life affords us, of your readiness to promote the best interests of your County. We are dear sir,

Respectfully yours,
LEWIS LUCKETT,
ARIS BUCKNER,
PRESLEY CORDELL,
The Hon. Joseph Lewis.

April 1st, 1817.

Gentlemen,

Indebted to my Fellow Citizens of the county of Loudoun, for the repeated proofs of confidence which I have received from them, in a political life of eighteen years duration. I cannot, when called upon, withhold from them those services on which they are pleased to set an unqualified value.

Be pleased, gentlemen, to accept my thanks for the manner in which you have made known to me the wishes of your friends, and to accept the assurance of my respect and esteem.

JOSEPH LEWIS JR.

CAUTION TO MERCHANTS.

Extract of a letter from John D. Lewis, Esqr. dated St. Petersburg, November 24, 1816. "It is required of every Captain on his arrival at the Grand Slip, near Cronstadt, to produce a Danish Bill of Health, otherwise he will experience great detention.—Make the above public for the benefit of the Merchants."

DUTCH PRICES CURRENT.

Sugars have been pretty lively of late—Jamaica from 20 a 32 guilders; Martinique and Guadaloupe, 26 a 28, clayed 35 a 37; Havana, brown, 31 a 34; white do. 37 a 44 per 100 lbs.; brown and white Havana, Batavia, in casks, and dry strong ground muscovado sugars most to be recommended.

The consumption of coffee is immense, and sales generally current; Moka, from 9 3/8 a 9 1/2; Java 9 1/2 a 10 1/2; St. Domingo, 9 1/8 a 9 1/4; Martinique, 9 a 9 1/2; Havana, 9 a 9 1/4 per lb.

Cocoa, W. India, from 8 3/4 a 9

1-2 stivers per lb. not much demanded.

Cotton, Georgia, upland, from 35 a 37; Louisiana, 36 a 38; and sea Island 53 cents per lb. This article is without any great stir at present, but we look for more liveliness in the demand.

Tobacco will sell well, provided it is of the best quality. Virginia, from 9 a 14; Maryland, 8 a 15; Georgia, 8 a 10 stivers per lb.

Rice will do well that may arrive shortly. Carolina, from 23 a 24; Brazil, 20 a 21 guilders per 100 lbs.

Teas sell rather slowly; hyson, 56 a 66; hyson skin, 33 a 39; Souchoong, 26 a 36; and Congo, 25 a 30 stivers per pound.

Extract of a letter to a gentleman in Louisiana, dated Natchitoches, Feb. 10, 1817.

"The chief of the Caddo tribe has recently returned from a visit to St. Antonio. The apparent object of his visit was mercantile, having been employed to cover, under the immunities granted to Indians, the merchandise of the less favored sons of civilization. But it is well ascertained that his mission involves a political intrigue of considerable moment. He has returned, clothed by the authority of the 'adored Ferdinand,' with the commission of Generalissimo of all the Indian tribes resident beyond the celebrated Arroyo Honda, a small bayou between this place and the Sabine, and about six miles from the limits of our town. This mighty chief of an hundred and twenty warriors, is furnished in pursuance of his mission, with instructions to arrest and detain all travellers or other suspicious looking persons, whom he may find within the limits of his high command.

"It is not ascertained that he has yet done any act of violence by virtue of these impetuous orders; neither is it presumed he will have the temerity to do any on this side the Sabine; but much difficulty is expected to result to such American adventurers as are unfortunate enough to fall into his hands beyond the acknowledged limits of Louisiana. Little is to be apprehended from the physical force of this redoubtable champion, but many evil consequences may result from his influence from the adjacent tribes, who are said to regard him with much veneration.

"How far this affair may require the interposition of government, government will best determine; but be assured we consider it a matter of considerable importance."

Somerset, (Penn.) March 20.

It becomes our painful duty to record the circumstance of a most melancholy occurrence which took place at the house of Henry Heiple, lonkeeper, about half a mile east of this place, on Wednesday night 12th inst. Lucien Long, a native of Southampton township, in this county, a blacksmith by trade, had for some time been ill of a fever, at Mr. Heiple's house, where he had been an inmate. About twelve o'clock of that night, he complained that he was dry; Mr. H. attended in the room, and poured him out some tea, which stood on the stove in the room; when Mr. H. told him he had some tea ready for him, he turned himself round in the bed towards Mr. H. and smiled, and again resumed his former posture in the bed, Mr. H. standing with his back to the stove, and facing the bed—Long then in a moment sprang from the bed, and struck Mr. Heiple a violent blow, immediately below his right breast. Mr. H. was some moments recovering from the shock, when he discovered that Long was stabbing himself with a penknife, which he did by piercing himself just below the pit of the stomach, and cutting from thence downwards right & left from the same point until his bowels came out—another young man who then entered the room and laid hold of him, received a stab, but the thickness of his clothes prevented its entering his body. Mr. H. by this time discovered from the flowing of blood, that he himself was stabbed in the breast.

Long expired on Friday last, and was buried on Saturday near the town. James Johnson, coroner of the county held an inquest on the body, who, after the examination, returned a verdict of suicide, during a fit of insanity.

It is yet doubtful whether Mr. Heiple will recover.

SWALLOWING NOTES

On Friday last four persons were arrested and committed on the suspicion of having stolen eight, one hundred dollar notes. Strong circumstances having induced a belief that they had swallowed the money, emetics were administered. In consequence, one of the suspected persons, John Smith, east up two notes of the United States Bank, each of one hundred dollars. The others did not deliver any.

New-York, April 9.

News from Buenos Ayres. The editors of the Gazette are indebted to a respectable house, for the perusal of letters per the brig Elizabeth, containing the subsequent particulars.

A letter from Buenos Ayres, of the 29th of January, states:

"The Expedition destined against Chili, left Mendoza on the 17th inst., under the command of Gen. San Martin; the force under him, consists of about 5500 regulars, and 2000 militia, and the people here seem confident that he will succeed."

Another letter of the same date observes "There is every chance, that the Portuguese will obtain possession of the Banda Oriental. The Portuguese will be in quiet possession of Monte Video."

In addition to the above, Captain Douglas who sailed on the third of Feb. informs, that Monte Video had surrendered to the Portuguese without fighting.

A Buffoon at the court of Francis I, complained to the King, that a great lord threatened to murder him for uttering some jokes about him. If he does "said Francis" he shall be hanged in five minutes after "I wish says the wag, your majesty would hang him five minutes before."

AGREEABLE PROSPECTS.

It is highly gratifying to observe the increasing spirit of enterprise among the people in various parts of the country, as it respects roads, canal, improved methods of transportation by land, and in regard to domestic manufactures, etc.—The conviction appears to be at last prevailing, that the day of universal speculation, of mushroom fortunes, and of luxurious living, is over for the present; and that the time has arrived when we must commence a rigid scrutiny into our accounts and our resources; when we must set our deranged affairs in order, and begin business on a new scale, and in a new channel. The people seem to be looking about them in good earnest, to discover where their true and permanent interest lies; and with the spirit of research which now animates them, they cannot long remain ignorant of their true policy; and it is a most promising circumstance, that while industry is getting into public favor, her sister TEMPERANCE is not forgotten: while our legislatures, corporations, &c. are endeavoring to foster the spirit of enterprise in domestic improvements & manufactures, the synods and other respectable bodies, in various parts of the country, are investigating and exposing to public view the prevalence and miserable effects of intemperance. The best wishes of the good and the wise must accompany every effort to counteract industrious and discourage vicious habits.

B. 60 days fr. Montreal, for St. John's, blown off the coast, condemned unseaworthy, and all sold at auction; sloop Robin, Boston, to sail in a few days; Little Jane, Israel, of and for Philadelphia, after being on this coast 30 days, and within 50 miles of Cape Henry, was blown off; threw overboard 75 bags coffee; cargo partially damaged.

From the New-York Gazette.

TUESDAY MORNING.

We are on our tip-toe for news by the ship Amity, Stanton, just announced by a pilot boat.

** If Charles Cross is in the district of Columbia, or in the neighboring states, by addressing a line to THOMAS BRADDOCK, in Alexandria, he can get information of his aged father has been from so long.

The Printers in the district, and the state of Maryland and Virginia, by giving this a few insertions, will confer a particular favor on an aged parent, who has travelled nine hundred miles to find an only son.
